Junior High Science

Welcome to the 2009-2010 school year!

For the sixth graders, the biggest challenge facing them initially will be organization. As their homeroom teacher, my primary job for now is making sure they get to where they need to be and that they bring the right materials with them. Each student has a copy of the schedule that should be kept in their binders. Students are also required to keep their homework planners in their binders and record homework at the end of each class.

There is so much to look forward to this year! Socially, they will experience the junior high dance, as well as many new events and opportunities we have in the works for them. This is the first year they participate in the science fair as individuals instead of as a class. This is also the first year they can run for student council.

The sixth graders are with me for Religion, Literature, Vocabulary, and Science. In Religion, we embark on our Family Life unit in January. This part of the course focuses on Christian relationships and human sexuality. You are welcome to preview the text in advance.

If you scroll through my webpage, you will find the vocabulary schedule (all homework and test dates) for the entire year, as well as a list of literary terms to be mastered each trimester.

If you have any questions or concerns, please contact me at lbrosamle@stbernardine.org or call the school and leave a message.

*Of special note: please be familiar with our junior high homework and detention policy. All homework must be complete and submitted on time. If a student does not complete his or her homework on time, he/she receives a zero for the assignment and is given a homework slip. The homework assignment must be completed and returned the next day with the slip signed by a parent or guardian. A student will earn a Wednesday (morning) detention if he or she accumulates three of any of the following notices, in any combination: homework, uniform violation, conduct referral. Upon receipt of a sixth notice in a given trimester, privileges will be revoked.
